

What activities use data?

Last Modified on 06/18/2021 4:02 pm EDT

Sending, receiving, surfing, downloading or uploading information through your Internet Service consumes data. This data includes, but is not limited to, images, movies, photos, videos, streaming media, system download updates, application and system updates. It also includes network and application overhead which are necessary elements to send and receive the traffic to its proper destination.
