

Why should I secure my wireless home network?

Last Modified on 11/26/2024 4:16 pm EST

Securing your wireless network is extremely important as anyone within range of your unsecured network will have access to it. We advise securing your wireless network with a security key. Hackers and identity thieves are looking to steal passwords, credit card information, download illegal content and other copyright protected materials over your network without your knowledge. If you feel your network has been compromised, we recommend you change your network name and password.
